It was my understanding based on personal contact and conversations that the German National Socialist authorities wished to establish a European Commonwealth with headquarters in Berlin, from which would be directed the common economic, political and social activities of the member nations.

Such direction to stem from a council, consisting of representatives of the different member-states on equal status.

The authorities mentioned above included Hitler, Himmler, Dr. Lammers, Rosenberg and Terboven.

The composition of the European Commonwealth was meant to include all continental countries except Russia (including White Russia and the Ukraine), Switzerland and Spain and Portugal.
